

Trauma-Informed Caregiving

A Four-Part Training Series

Mount Saint Vincent's Trauma-Informed Caregiving Training is designed to support parents, whether they be biological, adoptive, foster or kinship, by enhancing their ability to understand and aid children demonstrating challenging behaviors.

This four-part series, rooted in child neurodevelopment, will explore the impact trauma has on the developing brain, how early childhood adversity may lead to behavioral challenges, and strategies to help children during a crisis. Participants will have the opportunity to discuss with each other how they can relay this information when advocating for a child in their care.

A series of four trainings will be held at Mount Saint Vincent for a fee of $60 per person.
